July 9, 2009

The Honorable Nancy Pelosi
Speaker of the House
Office of the Speaker of the House of Representatives
H-232 Capitol Building
Washington, DC 20515-6501

Dear Madame Speaker:

We are writing to express our strong support for full funding for the World Bank's IDA and regional development banks in the Foreign Operations Appropriations bill.

The United States has a tradition of strong support for the multilateral development institutions irrespective of whether Democrats or Republicans controlled Congress and the White House. Some ask why work through cumbersome multilateral institutions that the United States does not entirely control. First, they enable us to leverage our contribution and our impact. Each dollar contributed by the United States is matched by over $15 from other sources. IDA, part of the World Bank that supports the world's poorest countries and other regional development banks also permit us to extend our reach beyond what we can do with bilateral assistance.

Second, these institutions serve some of the world's poorest countries and benefit billions that live on less than $2 per day. Beyond this, they have proven unusually effective in assisting war-ravaged countries and other fragile states where we have a huge stake in seeing a return to stability and growth.

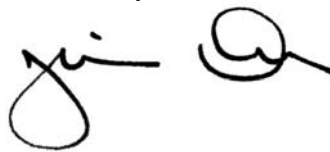

Over the years, the World Bank and other regional development banks have benefited from American leadership and been highly responsive to U.S. policy objectives. The current IDA replenishment reflects some key priorities of Congress and World Bank President Robert Zoellick, including working on global public goods like combating HIV/AIDS and climate change and laying the groundwork for trade liberalization. In countries of particular importance to the United States like Afghanistan and Liberia, IDA has been a big investor, helping restore essential services, building infrastructure and improving governance.

Of course much remains to be done. Eleven million Afghans remain illiterate, and half the country's school aged children do not attend schools (and these are disproportionately girls). In rural Africa, only 8% of households have electricity. Education remains a challenge and diseases like malaria and HIV/AIDS take a huge toll. In Pakistan the lack of access to basic services in remote areas has contributed to persistent poverty and has helped to create a breeding ground for hostile ideologies. Across the world, scores of poor countries are trying to maintain growth and stability as they are being buffeted by the impacts of the global financial crisis. Close to home, people in Haiti, Guatemala, Nicaragua and other countries in America's backyard still struggle just to survive.

We are mindful of our government's tradition of supporting multilateral development institutions and urge Congress to authorize the full funding for these institutions within the Foreign Operations Appropriations bill.

Sincerely,

James C. Orr
