

Organizational Membership

Committee members are influencers from every region of the world who share the common belief that international economic cooperation is essential and best served through strong, effective multilateral institutions. Committee members include organizations in business, finance, academia, government, and the non-profit sector from around the world. As a member your organization can help BWC shape its policy objectives, and your organization's executives and emerging leaders will have access to our strong network of global influencers and policymakers and the opportunity to interact with them in meaningful ways through exclusive engagement opportunities, networking events, conferences, and working groups.

Please contact Melissa Smith, Director of Membership and Giving, at Msmith@brettonwoods.org for more information or to join.

WHAT WE DO

CONVENE

leaders from industry, finance, academia, and government for critical dialogue on global economic issues.

INFORM

government officials of the value of multilateralism as an independent, non-partisan advocate.

ADVISE

national and multilateral policymakers through expert analysis and policy prescriptions.

DRIVEN BY MEMBERS

BWC's work is informed and led by members. Through working groups and events, BWC members come together to analyze the issues, develop policy proposals, and move the dialogue forward on the most pressing issues facing the global economy.

MISSION

The Bretton Woods Committee is the preeminent non-profit organization dedicated to effective global economic and financial cooperation.

Toward this end, we demonstrate the value of multilateralism and improve the performance of the international financial institutions (IFIs) through public dialogue, advocacy, and policy analysis.
